TEDxLANL two years ago, Emma Cohen, of the Environmental Stewardship group, presented a short talk titled “How to save a mermaid.” The talk focused on issues such as “microtrash” (think plastic drinking straws) and ways to avoid disposable “dinnerware.” Emma will repeat her talk at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, April 19, in the Museum’s auditorium. By attending, you too can learn how to save the mermaids. Seating is limited and will be first come, first served.
